Incendo wraps up its season with the shooting of “SOMETIMES THE GOOD KILL”

Montreal, October 25th, 2016 – Incendo is pleased to announce that principal photography has commenced on its latest thriller SOMETIMES THE GOOD KILL, starring actress Susie Abromeit (Marvel’s; Diving Normal; A Perfect Christmas). Shot on location in Montreal, the movie also co-stars Canadian actresses, Amanda Brugel (Room; Eyewitness; Orphan Black) and Allison Hossack (Another World; Cobra; Christmas Miracle).

Sometimes The Good Kill’s screenplay has been written by acclaimed writer, Ian Carpenter. Philippe Gagnon will be directing this new thriller. “Philippe is a highly successful director. His past work has earned him nominations at the Canadian Screen Awards, the Seoul International Drama Awards, the Directors Guild of Canada Awards, as well as the Rockie Awards. It is very exciting to work with such talent as Susie, Amanda, Allison and Philippe” says Jean Bureau, President and CEO of Incendo.

SOMETIMES THE GOOD KILL After a mysterious death at the Abbey, Sister Talia finds herself caught in the center of the internal investigation. With strict orders from the newly elected Mother Superior, she must uncover the truth behind the death and ensure the Abbey remains undisturbed. Things take a sharp turn when another sister is found murdered and Sister Talia is forced to find the killer. As she discovers larger secrets plaguing the Abbey, Sister Talia must reconcile her past life in order to follow through with the task at hand. For Sister Talia, all that she knows about the Abbey and her Sisters is about to come into question, as she discovers sometimes the good kill.

SOMETIMES THE GOOD KILL is produced with the participation of Bell Media. Jean Bureau and Ian Whitehead will produce the film for Incendo; Executive Producer is Mr. Jean Bureau.
